Explore at a distance

Programs for the Public

Exhibitions

Adult Education Seminars

Teacher and Student Programs

Programs for Genealogists

Scholarly Seminars

Center for American Indian and Indigenous Studies Programs

Center for Renaissance Studies Programs

Center for the History of Cartography Programs

Chicago Studies Programs

Events for Donors

Fundraising Events

Share This Page

Exploring Early Modern Maps

Peter Roselli, Manuscript portolan chart of the Mediterranean and Black Seas, VAULT oversize Ayer MS map 3

Ptolemy, Cosmographia, VAULT Ayer 6 .P9 1482a

Research Methods Workshop for Graduate Students and Junior Faculty

Friday, November 16, 2018
9:30-5 pm
Led by Jim Akerman, Newberry Library
CENTER FOR RENAISSANCE STUDIES PROGRAMS
RENAISSANCE GRADUATE PROGRAMS

Cartographic studies permeate all disciplines of early modern studies and inspire new perspectives on the renaissance world. Examining maps, atlases, and other cartographic material from the Newberry's collections, participants will learn about the production, dissemination, and use of maps in the early modern period. In so doing, the workshop provides an orientation to different methodologies for understanding how mapping the early modern world reflected the political, intellectual, and cultural needs and interests of the day.

This workshop is open to graduate students of any level and junior-level faculty with research interests in any field of early modern studies.

Schedule

9:30-10 am Introductions

10-11:30 am Discussion

11:30-12 pm Library Tour

12-1 pm Catered Lunch

1-4 pm Workshop with Rare Materials

4-4:15 pm Break

4:15-5 pm Final Discussion

Cost and Registration Information

The application process for this workshop has now closed.

Calendars

Find out what's going on at the Newberry

Open to the Public

Exhibitions

Adult Education Seminars

Programs for Genealogists

Center for American Indian Studies

Center for Renaissance Studies

Center for the History of Cartography

PROGRAMS AND EVENTS »