Veterans for Peace Mural:
Honoring Veterans in our Student and Local Community

Tuesday, Sept 26, 5 p.m. - 7 p.m.

Opening remarks by Chancellor Ray Wallace at 5:15 pm

University Center South, Indiana University Southeast
4201 Grant Line Road, New Albany, IN 47150

In the summer of 2017, local and student veterans worked with professors Susanna Crum and Mariana Grohowski to create the Veterans for Peace mural, now on display at Indiana University Southeast. This large-scale, original artwork combines veterans' portraits and keepsake photos, with images of iconic monuments and events, to honor the roles military service personnel have played throughout the 20th and 21st centuries.

Many thanks to the local veterans who assisted with this project, as well as Louisville Visual Art, the Center for Neighborhoods, the ArtsMatch grant program of the Fund for the Arts, and IU Southeast for their support.

This event is free and open to the public. Please use the lower entrance to University Center South, next to the clock tower.
